

VIRGINIA WOODLANDS

Dying should be a beautiful, holy, ritualistic experience
 Many people hope to die in a safe environment surrounded by family and friends, with hospice to ease suffering and pain

An alternative space for dying in peace, simplicity, quiet and comfort at an affordable cost
 Situated in hardwood forest with one view open to pasture land
 Interior space collaboratively designed with hospice experts
 Simple food provided upon request; affiliated with an organic farm
 Memorial forest, meditation room and adjacent café open to public
 Guests enrolled in hospice programs for care on site in a safe, secure location

Virginia Woodlands

Melissa Bradner MD, MSHA*; Terrance P. Wyllie AIA^; Yael Tarshish MD~

*Associate Professor, Virginia Commonwealth University School of Medicine, Richmond VA

^ Director of Architecture, BOB Architecture, Richmond VA

~ Director Palliative and Hospice Medicine, Baystate Health, Springfield MA Assistant Professor University of Massachusetts School of Medicine

